N. F. DAVIN has the honor of being elected to parliament for Western Assiniboia by the smallest majority in Canada. There are several cases of a member being elected by a majority of one, but Mr. Davin stands alone in being elected by the vote of the returning officer the ballots having been declared a tie by the judge at the recount. The farmers and workers generally of the constituency declared against the government candidate by a large majority. It required the whole of the very large official vote of the constituency to balance the hostile majority against him. The taxpayers of Western Assiniboia have been beaten by the tax eaters. However, a protest has been entered and it is likely that before the second session of the new parliament is convened the constituency will have the representative of its choice, and the Territories will present a solid front against robbery by tariff and monopoly.

EDMONTON PRESBYTERY.

On Tuesday morning, 14th inst., Rev. D. G. McQueen, Edmonton; Rev. D. Spear, of Innisfail; Rev. John Fernie, Lacombe; and Rev. A. Forbes, Fort Saskatchewan, ministers, with W. Johnstone Walker, Edmonton, and J. J. Ferguson, South Edmonton, elders, members of the Presbytery of Calgary, met in the Presbyterian church, Edmonton, to organize the new Presbytery of Edmonton, which the general assembly at its meeting in Toronto in June ult. authorized through its clerk. Rev. D. G. McQueen, being the present father of Presbyterianism in the north, had been appointed first moderator by the assembly, and at the hour appointed he called the gentlemen present to order by singing a psalm, reading a portion of scripture, and constituted with prayer the new Presbytery, of which the ministers and elders present are the first members. Rev. G. Vetter, Josephsburg, Rev. Janssen, South Edmonton, and Rev. W. McKay, Belmont, with Mr. Peter Naismith, catechist, Olds, were present. The first two are by the authority of the general assembly to be received into the Presbyterian churchof Canada at the next meeting of the new Presbytery. Mr. Naismith is to be licensed and ordained at the same time.

The southern boundary of the new Presbytery commences about five miles south of Olds and extends northwards to the pole. On the east it extends to the Presbytery of Regina and on the west to British Columbia.

Rev. D. G. McQueen was elected moderator until September, 1897, and Rev. A. Forbes, clerk of the Presbytery. Rev. J. Fernie was elected convener on church life and work. Rev. Dr. Robertson, superintendent of missions, who was a member of Brandon Presbytery, was at his own request transferred to the Edmonton Presbytery.

The Presbytery was adjourned to meet on Tuesday, Sept. 1st in the Presbyterian church, Edmonton, at 10 a. m.

In the evening a public meeting was held at 8 o'clock over which Rev. D.G. McQueen presided. The chairman read a most interesting paper written by Professor Baird, of Manitoba university, who was the first Presbyterian minister in Edmonton. The paper was a full description of the journey by trail from Winnipeg to Edmonton in the old days. The other speakers were Revs. Spear, of Wetaskiwin, Fernie, of Lacombe, and Mr. Naismith, of Olds.

Messrs. Spear, Fernie, Naismith and McKay with Mr. McQueen as charioteer went to Fort Saskatchewan yesterday, where they had a pleasant time, enjoying the kindly greeting and hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Forbes.

THE NEW BALLOT.

The new Dominion ballot has not proved the success that was expected in securing uniformity of marking, and there are quite the usual number cases in which the election of a member depends as much upon the opinion of a judge as upon the wish of the electors. This is an unfortunate condition of affairs, especially where judges differ as they do. Already a number of suggestions have been made as to a still further improved form of ballot. The root of the trouble is not so much the form of the ballot paper as the stress that is laid by the law upon a particular marking of the ballot and the penalty that is applied for mis-marking. The first purpose of the ballot is to enable the elector to cast his vote, the second purpose is to enable him to cast his vote secretly. As the present law is framed and interpreted it would appear that these purposes are reversed, and that the secrecy is more important than the vote. The idea of refusing to count ballots improperly marked is to deter the voter from marking his ballot for identification, as an adjunct of bribery, imposing upon him the penalty of losing his vote. The theory is all right, but in practice the result is that not only is an elector punished for a corrupt intent, but the candidate and through him the whole electorate are made to suffer not only for the corrupt intent of a single voter, but for the slightest inadvertance of a voter. If the matter rested even here it would not be so bad; but beyond that comes in the possibility in a very close contest of a candidate being counted in or out by a judge, who, as they so frequently differ, may be assumed to be liable to err. So that under this system the main purpose of the election fails, through the attempt to cover the minor point. Why not make it thoroughly understood in the law that the intent of the voter however expressed should be considered, and depend upon ordinary legal means for preventing conspiracy for the identification of ballots. No matter how carefully the secrecy of the ballot is guarded it is still possible to mark so that it can be identified. Then why ignore the will of a whole constituency in attempting the impossible. Of course there is no way in which the necessity of an appeal to a judge can be absolutely prevented, but the necessity should be reduced to the lowest possible point, and when necessary there should be some means of securing unanimity of decision, without which the right of appeal seems to be a questionable benefit.

DISMISSED.

The circumstances under which Sir Charles Tupper retired from office last week were a fitting climax to those under which he attained office only a few months before. He attained office by treachery and retired from it under compulsion, made necessary by the wholesale corruption which he was attempting, after he had been rejected by the people at the polls. Between the 23rd of June and the 8th of July he had put through council—so it is reported—some 400 appointments to offices ranging from judgships and senatorships down to places worth $500 a year. Not only had he proposed to fill existing vacancies, but he had undertaken to make vacancies by wholesale superannuation of efficient public servants. Indeed it is more than likely that his attempt was, by using the power of appointment judiciously, to break down the acknowledged parliamentary majority against him and so retain his hold on office. The tactics by which he had carried the second reading of the remedial bill were being repeated on a grander scale, and for a greater purpose. As a rule the governor-general has only an automatic duty to perform. When he has a cabinet of responsible advisers, that is a cabinet who have—or may be supposed to have—the confidence of a majority of parliament, he has no responsibility. He simply gives formal sanction to their determinations, and it is of no consequence to him whether those determinations are justified or not. They represent the will of the people and therefore must be carried out. But when at any time or for any cause the governor-general is satisfied that a certain recommendation by his advisers is not in accord with the will of the people; it is his prerogative to refuse to accept the advice, and that act is the dismissal of his advisers. When a ministry has been defeated at the polls the governor-general is bound to consider that their advice tendered after that date is not the advice of the majority of the people, but as a matter of courtesy, under ordinary circumstances, they are allowed to wind up the business in hand to the extent of making necessary appointments as well as in other matters. In fact they are allowed to administer the affairs of government until they hand in their resignations. But in the case of Tupper and his friends, they overstepped any possible bounds that courtesy might allow and compelled the governor-general to act on his prerogative to the extent of refusing to act on their advice, or in other words to demand their resignations. Hon. Mr. Angers has told the reporters that he and his friends were dismissed. It would have been more judicious had he kept the information to himself. For he is simply advertising the fact that their dismissal was for cause, and the cause was the attempted abuse of the courtesy that is ordinarily and properly extended to outgoing ministries, which they proposed to take shameful advantage of. The governor-general is the fly wheel which carries the machinery of government over the dead points of the defeat of ministries. Under such circumstances he has very definite responsibilities, and it is to the further disgrace of Sir Charles Tupper and his colleagues that Lord Aberdeen was compelled to exercise his responsibility to protect the Canadian treasury from this—to quote the Mail—"prince of political cracksmen."

FREE SILVER AND HIGH TARIFF.

The silver question which is the issue in the coming presidential campaign in the States may be stated as a proposition under which any person holding silver in any form may have it changed into coin by the government, which will fix a standard of value for the silver so coined as to make it worth very nearly double as much in coin as in any other form. The silver producing states naturally favor a proposition that would double the value of their chief output, and would much more than double the amount of the output, for there are many low grade mines that cannot be worked at the present price of silver that would be worked profitably at the enhanced comparative value that silver would have under this proposition. The wheat producing states are supporting it because, although not directly interested as are the silver states, they believe that doubling the comparative value of silver would increase the wealth of the nation by that amount and would therefore bring general prosperity, in which they would share. A large portion of the people of the Eastern and and Southern states also support it because they know that the present wealth of the nation is concentrated in few hands, they know that this few have always used every legislative device to still further concentrate wealth in their hands, and they think they see in this proposition to make wealth by legislation, a means of balancing or checking the overgrown and misused power of the money kings or gold bugs of the east. The principle is the same as if the farmers secured legislation to make people pay a dollar a bushel for wheat when the market price was only 50c., and very much the same as when the manufacturer secures legislation which compels the consumer to pay twenty, fifty or one hundred per cent. more for his product than he otherwise would have to. It is not too much to say that the western demand for free silver is the natural offset to the eastern demand for high tariff, and the democratic nomination of Bryan, the free silver crank, is the natural result of the republican nomination of McKinlay the high tariff crank.

WHILE the Winnipeg Free Press entertains its readers by pointing out how the BULLETIN has been adversely criticizing the liberal party since the elections, the Lethbridge News informs it readers that "the Edmonton BULLETIN, which in the past has been independent with liberal leanings seems now to have planted itself firmly on the liberal side," and the Calgary Herald finds in the statement by the BULLETIN that the country is now to have "an honest man at the head of an honest government, having a honest policy," an evidence of bigoted partizanship. The BULLETIN is specially fortunate in being able to give so many different papers the cause to find fault for which they are so anxiously looking.

THE Lethbridge News has an article in a recent issue calling upon the liberal party to carry out their promises of tariff reform, which it seems to imagine were promises to abolish the tariff altogether; and especially wants a frightful example made of the Massey-Harris company. The News should take matters more coolly, and judicially. The liberal party did not promise to abolish the tariff. It was only the conservative stumpers who said they did. Their proposition was to reform and readjust the tariff in the interest of the producers and consumers of the country. When they have had the opportunity to do so and have failed will be time enough for the News to get excited.

GENERAL NEWS.

Nor'-Wester says: Father Morin, who has been looking after his colony at St. Albert, returned yesterday from Alberta. He goes on Saturday to Montreal to bring up a number of settlers.

Moose Jaw Times: Mr. Frank Oliver, member elect for Alberta, has been suggested as the man that should be taken into Laurier's Cabinet as Minister of the Interior. Regarding the suggestion we fully agree with it.

Referring to the recent editorial in the BULLETIN on Western development. The Grenfell Sun says: Mr. Oliver speaks like a man and a brother. Hope he will act up to it when he gets to Ottawa. In view of the fact that it seems highly improbable that Mr. Laurier will be able to get a seat in Manitoba for his Minister of the Interior, why not make Mr. Oliver his Minister of the Interior.

A Buluwayo dispatch to the Daily Telegraph says, that the expedition from there into the Matoppo Hills against the Matabele has been temporarily abandoned. The African troops refused to fight owing to dissatisfaction with the conditions of the service. The Daily Telegraph has an editorial commenting upon its African dispatches as showing that the forces there are quite insufficient to cope with the rebellion.

Toronto World says: In view of the importance of the issue now before the Democratic convention we append this explanation of the meaning of the plank, "free silver coinage, 16 to 1": It means in practice that sixteen ounces of silver should be held as worth as much as one ounce of gold. One ounce of gold, American coin standard, of fineness—that is, 900 parts of pure gold to 100 of alloy—will coin in gold dollars $18.60. Sixteen ounces of silver, American coin stand of fineness—that is, 900 parts of pure silver to 100 of alloy, at the rate of 412 1-2 grains to the dollar (the weight of the present standard silver dollar) will coin $18.60 in silver dollars. These sixteen ounces of silver can be bought in the markets of the word to-day for $9.94. There would, therefore, be a profit of $8.66 on an investment of $9.94, being about 87 per cent, if a holder of silver could take it to the mint and coin it without charge into silver dollars.

A Toronto telegram of July 10th, says: The Ottawa correspondent of the Toronto Evening News says: The conference between Mr. Laurier and Lord Aberdeen this morning is looked upon by party managers as more than a mere formal offer of the premiership. Constitutionalists say the governor-general will explain to the liberal leader the difficulty he had with his late advisers. It will be necessary also for Mr. Laurier, when he accepts office, to assume responsibility for the action of the governor. There is no doubt whatever that Mr. Laurier will, if necessary, do this, but will, in all probability, consult Mr. Mills, who has been called here for the purpose before he finally commits himself. This will relieve the crown from any criticism that may ensue as a result of the late unpleasantness. It is said the action of Lord Aberdeen amounted almost to a dismissal of the cabinet of Sir. Charles Tupper. If this is the case the new government will have undertaken responsibility of justifying a new precedent before parliament and the country. In all probability Laurier will have luncheon with His Excellency and on his return from Rideau hall will intimate that he has undertaken the task of forming a government. The new cabinet will not be announced for a day or two.

THE HOPE OF CANADA.

Under the above heading the Globe in a recent issue says editorially :

We have disagreed as to the means that ought to be adopted to foster the growth of industry in all its branches, agriculture, manufacturing and commerce. One party has inclined further toward State aid, the other further toward freedom. But there is, in the main, no difference of opinion as to the ends that ought to be aimed at. We all wished to see prosperity on the farm, in the factory, in the warehouse. We all desire to see as great a diversity of industry as is practicable, giving the largest possible scope to Canadian industry, skill and inventiveness : that workmen shall be well paid and that a high standard of living shall prevail among them. The entire community, without any distinction of party, was proud of the high position which Canada took at the World's Fair three years ago. We do not think that it can be said that the entire community is satisfied with the progress that has been made, having in view the character of our people and the resources with which they have been endowed. But there is no cause for discouragement. What has been done is an earnest of greater things to be achieved ; there is no lack of industry, intelligence and enterprise among us, and all that is necessary is that we shall not, fritter away our money and our labor upon fantastic experiments. Climate, water powers and other natural opportunities, human activity, all points to Canada becoming one of the greatest industrial communities in the world.

We have had a long and keen controversy over an educational question, but there is, or ought to be, no division among us as to the desirability of giving to every child an education that will fit him for the duties of citizenship. The questions which must be decided from time to time are difficult, the opportunities for appeals to bigotry and prejudice are many, the franchise is wide; we cannot afford to have an ignorant electorate. We know, too that it is the educated community that is likely to take the lead in agriculture, in manufacturing, in commerce, in all those forms of activity in which we must compete with the world. The first requisite of every educational system is a thorough, practical elementary training for all. But it ought not to be the last. A community like this ought to set before itself the highest ambitions in scholarship, in art, in literature, in all forms of intellectual activity. It is a great mistake to suppose that these are aspirations which must be reserved for older countries. We have, looking at the community as a whole and not merely to a few favored individuals, more resources and more leisure for higher education than the nations of Europe, with their enormous bills of expense for the maintenance of courts and camps; and we ought not to allow our opportunities to slip by.

We have heard it contended that Quebec presents an obstacle to the progress of Canada. It has been said that she is unprogressive; that she is priest-ridden ; that she is lacking in public spirit. Are these charges well founded? We hear a great deal about Mercierism. What is the history of that phase of Quebec politics? Mercier was, by reason of his personal qualities, a favorite with the French-Canadian people. As a public man he and some of his colleagues were guilty of grave faults which we have never attempted to condone. What was the action of the French-Canadian people when they were compelled to choose between their personal affection for the man and their regard for the public interests of that province? They dethroned the popular favorite by one of the largest majorities ever given in Quebec. Can we in Ontario point to a more prompt and decisive condemnation of public wrong? Have we any right to play the pharisee with Quebec, to give thanks that in our public conduct we are not as she is? Every honest man must say no to these questions. Again, it is Quebec that has given the most decisive voice against the regime of corruption and extravagance at Ottawa. We do not desire to misrepresent the vote of Quebec. We know that it is largely due to personal regard for Mr. Laurier, and to the pride that French Canadians feel in elevating to the premiership a distinguished member of their race. But there is a race feeling that makes for good as well as one that makes for evil. No one would say that there was any lack of patriotism, any suggestion of discord or disunion in the pride that a Scotchman would feel in a Scotch prime minister of Britain. There is the widest difference in the world between the race feeling that takes the form of hatred and jealousy and the race feeling that takes the form of pride and affection such as Mr. Laurier arouses in his native province. We have seen that personal influence at work in a Protestant and English-speaking community, and the enthusiasm with which Mr. Laurier is regarded here is a bond of union between ourselves and our neighbors, a bond which we hope to see strengthened as time goes on.

That our friends in Quebec have some manners and customs different from our own, that they speak another language, that the bulk of them are Catholics are matters that need give us no uneasiness. A dead level of uniformity is not essential to unity, nor to cordial co-operation in national objects. No such uniformity exists in the mother country, where English, Irish, Scotch and Welsh people cherish their own customs and traditions, and yet all are loyal citizens of the empire. The recent elections have astounded many people who had been accustomed to look upon Quebec as a place where public spirit was dead, and the voters were driven to the polls to vote in solid masses at the bidding of the hierarchy. If Quebec has ever been under such a spell she must have experienced a tremendous awakening. "Methinks," says Milton, in his noble plea for liberty of opinion, "I see in my mind a noble puissant nation, rousing herself like a strong man after sleep, and shaking her invincible locks; methinks I see her as an eagle renewing her mighty youth, and kindling her dazzled eyes at the full midday beam, purging and uncalling her long-abused sight at the fountain itself of heavenly radiance, while the whole noise of timorous and flocking birds, with those also that love the twilight, flutter about, amazed at what she means." We have gained in mutual confidence and respect as the result of the election. Let us keep and improve that advantage. Let us work side by side to fulfl the destiny sketched out for us by an eloquent voice : "A dream of ever-broadening harvests, multiplying towns and villages, and expanding pastures ; of constitutional government and a confederated empire ; of page after page of honorable history, added as the contribution to the annals of her mother country and to the glories of the British race ; of a perpetuation for all time upon this continent of that temperate and well-balanced system of government, which combines in one mighty whole, as the eternal possession of all Englishmen, the brilliant history and traditions of the past with the freest and most untrammeled liberty of action in the future."

RED DEER.

Wm. Springbeth has now received his commission as J. P.

Our new race track is nearing completion and when finished it will make a splendid course.

A number of our farmers have commenced haying, but it is principally upland hay that is being cut.

Rev. Mr. Wooden, of Innisfail, also held church of England service in Wilkin's hall on Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mr. Jessup's "Tranby Croft," and Mr. Nap Remillard's "Greasy Buck," returned from the Edmonton races on Sunday.

James McMurray has gone on a business trip to the Kootenay. He will visit Rossland and other mining centries in British Columbia before returning.

The Cree Indians, who are being brought from the United States to the different reservations in the north arrived in two parties in charge of Sergeant Perry. Staff. Sergeant Dunning took charge of the outfit from here north.

The examination of candidates for teachers certificates finished on Saturday at the public school here. There were four candidates viz: For third class certificate, Miss Cornett, Miss McLelland and Miss Cole. For second class certificate, Miss Stewart.

Rev. Leo Gaetz, of Brandon, with Miss G. Gaetz have been visiting Red Deer during the past two weeks, Rev. Mr. Gaetz occupied the pulpit in the Methodist church on Sunday afternoon taking for his text "What is truth," which subject he handled very ably. The church was crowded.

From all appearances we must have some very light fingered gentlemen in our neighborhood. While Mr. and Mrs. Gover were on a visit to Devil's Pine lake last week they had their house broken into and everything of any value removed. The police are now investigating and we trust for the sake of the public at large that they will be successful in unearthing the guilty parties. Mr. Gover estimates his loss at from $800 to $900.

POLLING SUB-DIVISION'S.

VERMILLION.

Last winter was exceptionally cold at Vermillion, Peace River, and the spring was late. Hay was scarce towards spring and there was some loss of cattle and horses in consequence. During part of the winter the snow was three feet deep. Old residents said it was the most severe winter they had seen in forty years. A scarcity of salt occurred during the winter which caused great inconvenience. The supply of salt for Vermillion is brought from Salt river on the Mackenzie by the H. B. Co. but last season for some reason the supply was short, and salt was consequently at a premium. The traders at Vermillion last winter were the H. B. Co., Lariviere, Brick Bros., and H. F. Davis. The crops of the settlers last season were fair, but not large. They suffered from drouth and grasshoppers, the latter resembling very closely the pest which did so much damage in Manitoba and the Western States in the 70's. Although the present spring was late, it was very favorable, once it opened, and crops advanced on June 9th, when H. F. Davis and party left. They were 15 days tracking up Peace River to the landing. The river was moderately high when they were coming up, but it raised nine feet afterwards. They met J. H. Picard on Sunday, June 20th, a short distance this side of Peace River landing.

The Calgary Tribune suggests that Frank Oliver should be taken into Laurier's Cabinet as Minister of the Interior. We doubt much whether Mr. Oliver will welcome that suggestion; but are certain that no selection could be made that would be more heartily endorsed by the West. Mr. Oliver is a man of originality of mind, and is further, a very embodiment of genuineness. Either as private Member or Minister, Oliver in parliament is bound to exercise a large measure of usefulness.—Regina Leader.

The flowers that bloom in the spring tra la,
Have nothing to do with the case tra la.

The poet was in error; this is wrong. They have something to do with the case. They have a mission to perform in cheering the heart of man for whom all things in this universe have been ordered. A springtime is a necessity for all things animate or inaminate. We have a rare lot of goods on hand in the springtime of their existence, and we wish nothing better than to see them blossom into summer on the persons of our customers.

CASHMERETTES — Our leading line in cotton dress goods, fast colors, unexcelled for beauty and finish, 12½cts. per yard.

LUSTRES, fancy colored, in dress lengths, one of the leading novelties of the season at from $5.00 to $10.00.

Ladies' Cotton BLOUSES and Shirt Waists, 85cts. to $1.75 each.

CHEMISETTES, 30 cents each.

Ladies' Black Cashmere HOSE, extra value, 3 pairs for $1.00.

HYGEIAN UNDERVESTS, 3 for $1.00.

Clothing . .

Our new season's Clothing is extra value. See our $9.00 Men's Tweed Suits.

Boots and Shoes

We are not sole agents for Geo. T. Slater & Son, but still we sell their boots. We also handle other lines from the best manufacturers in Canada and the United States, and are in no danger of being undersold. If Slater's Boots won't suit you we can produce some others that will.

That our goods are bought right there is no room to question. That we sell them right is a matter on which we await your decision, and we have to thank our customers for a most substantial expression of opinion in our increased sales at
